DEPARTMENT OF OPHTHALMOLOGY

As a member of the Department of Ophthalmology, Dr. Bull provides complete ocular examinations, treatment for disorders of the eye through surgery, or correction of visual defects through medication. Dr. Bull's special interests in ophthalmology include cataract extraction via phacoemulsification, oculoplastic surgery, treatment of glaucoma, and age-related macular degeneration. Dr. Bull also performs Botox injections for treatment of blepharospasm and hemi-facial spasm.

HOSPITAL AFFILIATION: Carle Foundation Hospital and Provena Covenant Medical Center

Dr. Bull and his wife have three sons. They enjoy watching and coaching their three sons in baseball, basketball, and football.

"The specialty of ophthalmology is a dynamic and vibrant field of medicine. State-of-the-art technology allows the ophthalmologist to restore a patient's sight almost immediately. The new twinkle in a patient's eye on the day after cataract surgery and knowing that the patients will have significant improvement in his/her daily life are tangible outcomes that many surgeons do not have the privilege of experiencing."
