

Meet Your Internal Medicine Physician

Michael Kuhlenschmidt, MD

As an engineer by training, I believe in evidence-based treatment. I invest time in reading and understanding the latest medical treatments and recommendations, and then translating those into realistic care plans for my patients.

However, I also believe that successful medicine is a partnership between physician and patient, and that any given treatment is only as successful as the patient or physician in that partnership will allow. I want to provide care that is evidence-based and modern, and also fits seamlessly into my patients' real, everyday lives.

When patients are in my care, I want them to feel safe and respected first and foremost. I also hope to empower my patients to ask questions about their conditions or treatments, ask "why" as much as they'd like, and act as true partners in shaping their care plans.

Why I Became a Medical Provider

"I earned my Bachelor's in Engineering from the University of Illinois with the intent of becoming a practicing engineer but something was missing. I'd spent my teens and twenties working as a lifeguard for the Champaign Park District and went through EMT training because I liked making a direct difference in people's health and well-being. My best friend (who is now my wife) encouraged me to combine the problem-solving aspects of engineering with the health and wellness aspects of first responder training by going to medical school. I took her advice, and as soon as I started my medical training, I knew I'd found my passion.

Champaign-Urbana is my home. I was born here, went to Centennial High School, got my undergraduate and medical degrees from the University of Illinois, and my wife and I are raising our three kids here. I not only understand this community, but I'm also an active and dedicated part of it, which helps me provide personalized care to my patients and fellow community members."

Department of Internal Medicine

In the Department of Internal Medicine, Dr. Kuhlenschmidt provides comprehensive primary care for patients 18 years and older with an emphasis on wellness and preventative care.

I spend most of my free time with my family – my wife, Megan, and our kids Finn, Patrick, and Annalise. My parents live close by, so we're fortunate in that our extended family spends a lot of time together too.

We like being outdoors; going to parks, the swimming pool, or on bike rides or walks in our neighborhood. We also like entertaining friends, going on road trips, and watching our kids play sports. We're huge animal lovers with three rescue dogs and one very patient cat.

We're also Cubs fans and follow the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Pittsburgh Penguins.
