

Meet Your Obstetrician and Gynecologist

Sarah Young, MD, FACOG

Getting to know my patients and their families is not only enjoyable for me, it helps me better serve their health care needs. I believe open communication between a patient and physician is essential, along with offering the latest technology and treatments.

Why I chose Health Care

"I enjoy offering primary care services and specialty services to women of all ages. I am fortunate that in my line of work, I can help women from puberty through menopause. My favorite aspect of my job is supporting patients through their pregnancies because it is such a wondrous and exciting time for them."
