

Meet Your Obstetrician and Gynecologist

Jody De Lind, DO, FACOG

Women's health, access to care, health education is the foundation for healthcare within a community. I was drawn to this field by not only the diversity of applications management and care, but also by the challenges which this field of medicine has faced as well.

Why I Chose Health Care

"I have always been drawn to science, and the understanding of anatomy and physiology. During my education in medical school, the intersection of health education, community access to healthcare and women's health became pivotal focus for my residency and career."
