

Meet Your Gastroenterologist

Karen Draper, MD

It's very important to me that my patients feel listened to during our time together. My goal is to hear patients' priorities and concerns, communicate my own knowledge and experience, and work closely with them to create an integrated treatment plan.

Why I Became a Medical Provider

"I chose the field of Gastroenterology because every day I have the opportunity to help my patients manage a wide variety of illnesses that can significantly affect their daily lives. I love working with patients to prevent future disease, improve their quality of life, and address serious life-threatening problems."
